Living arrangements and families come in all shapes and sizes. Because of this, counting them can be complicated. To help in understanding the differences, it is important to know what is being counted and what is not being counted.

A Household includes all people “who occupy a housing unit as their usual place of residence.”

Nonfamily households are those households where either someone is living alone or they live with people to whom they are not related. Some examples include: roommates, same sex couples without children (even if they are legally married in their state of residence), unmarried couples without children, a single householder with unrelated children such as a foster child, etc.

Family households have 2 or more people who are related by birth, marriage, or adoption. While we think of family households as having children, a married couple without children still meets the definition of a family household.

Children under 18 years old can also be counted in different ways. This issue of Kentucky: By The Numbers provides the number of family households with their own children – those who are related to the householder by birth, marriage (stepchild), or adoption.

Living arrangements and families come in all shapes and sizes. Because of this, counting them can be complicated. To help in understanding the differences, it is important to know what is being counted and what is not being counted.

Nonfamily households are those households where either someone is living alone or they live with people to whom they are not related. Some examples include: roommates, same sex couples without children (even if they are legally married in their state of residence), unmarried couples without children, a single householder with unrelated children such as a foster child, etc.

Family households have 2 or more people who are related by birth, marriage, or adoption. While we think of family households as having children, a married couple without children still meets the definition of a family household.

Children under 18 years old can also be counted in different ways. This issue of Kentucky: By The Numbers provides the number of family households with their own children – those who are related to the householder by birth, marriage (stepchild), or adoption.

Living arrangements and families come in all shapes and sizes. Because of this, counting them can be complicated. To help in understanding the differences, it is important to know what is being counted and what is not being counted.

Nonfamily households are those households where either someone is living alone or they live with people to whom they are not related. Some examples include: roommates, same sex couples without children (even if they are legally married in their state of residence), unmarried couples without children, a single householder with unrelated children such as a foster child, etc.

Family households have 2 or more people who are related by birth, marriage, or adoption. While we think of family households as having children, a married couple without children still meets the definition of a family household.

Children under 18 years old can also be counted in different ways. This issue of Kentucky: By The Numbers provides the number of family households with their own children – those who are related to the householder by birth, marriage (stepchild), or adoption.
